

Application Development with Microsoft

Microsoft provides an application development stack that is cost effective, open source and cross platform.

What if you can rapidly deliver new applications, which are designed to leverage these capabilities and provide native support for containers and microservices?

You can with System Soft Technologies.

SSTech leverages a rich suite of development tools and an agile methodology to develop your applications in a timely and cost-efficient manner.

You are enabled by:

A Robust Library of pre-built design accelerator modules, significantly reducing time to market.

Deep Skills with frameworks and languages, such as ASP.NET Core, EF Core, C#, .NET Framework, Xamarin, and others.

A modern and adaptive architecture, which allows your applications to run on mobile devices, Windows, MacOS, Linux and containers (Docker and Kubernetes).

Resourcing is seamlessly provided, so you can leverage onsite, offsite and hybrid sourcing models to support software.

New Development

Your applications architected and developed under this model start with the cloud in mind.

Maintenance

You can maintain your existing applications, keeping them available, running efficiently and secure against the most current threats.

Modification

You can update your applications to support the dynamic pace of competition, regulatory pressures and business expansion.

No matter what you require, SSTech has you covered. Our robust Microsoft Practice guides you to fully leverage today's advancing technology. We get this done by accelerating the application of Microsoft's innovations directly to your business needs.
